

Learner and Subject at the Dawn of Digital Research-Led Teaching and Learning in the Time of COVID-19

Editors:

Johannes A. Smit, Nhlanhla Mkhize,
Nobuhle Ndimande-Hlongwa, Labby Ramrathan

Alternation African Scholarship Book Series, Volume #04

Alternation African Scholarship Book Series (AASBS)

General Editors

Nhlanhla Mkhize; Relebohile Moletsane; Nobuhle Ndimande-Hlongwa;
Sarah Mosoetsa; Labby Ramrathan; Johannes A. Smit

Lead-Editors

Nyna Amin University of KwaZulu-Natal; Vivienne Bozalek Cape Peninsula University of Technology; Denzil Chetty University of South Africa; Rubby Dhunpath University of KwaZulu-Natal; Bekithemba Dube University of the Free State; Mari Haugaa Engh, Norwegian University of Science and Technology; Maserole Kgari-Masondo University of KwaZulu-Natal; Rembrandt Klopper University of Zululand; Simangaliso Kumalo University of KwaZulu-Natal; Sam Lubbe Mangosuthu University of Technology; Sadhana Manik University of KwaZulu-Natal; Cheryl Mohamed Sayeed University of KwaZulu-Natal; Herbert Moyo University of KwaZulu-Natal; Priya Narismulu University of KwaZulu-Natal; Thengani Ngwenya Durban University of Technology; Maheshvari Naidu University of KwaZulu-Natal; Beatrice Okyere-Manu University of KwaZulu-Natal; Kunle Oparinde Durban University of Technology; Michael Samuel University of KwaZulu-Natal; Federico Settler, University of KwaZulu-Natal; Upasana Gitanjali Singh University of KwaZulu-Natal; Lilian Siwila University of KwaZulu-Natal.

Alternation research groups have made decisive and far-sighted knowledge production contributions in the interdisciplinary Arts and Humanities arena for more than twenty-five years. From 2020, it adds the Alternation African Scholarship Book Series (AASBS) to its research outputs system. Via its incisive thematically-focused inter-, multi-, and trans-disciplinary, as well as digitally-informed, research approaches, the AASBS not only advances the frontiers of knowledge in Africa's institutions of Higher Learning in designated focus areas, but also critically generates scholarship of, by and with the people(s) of our continent. Historically the research draws on the rich traditions of interactive African intellectualisations, from its earliest civilisations, through struggles for liberation and freedom, to independence and growth. It opens up future epistemic opportunities through intellectual initiative and resourcefulness, while critically contributing to the international advancement of knowledge on all relevant levels. Contributing to research-led constructive, transformative and substantial discourse development in our programmes and disciplines, it also aims at impacting the well-being of our people foundationally and all-inclusively in the present. All forms of scientific and social challenge which Africa's societies and communities face, need to be problematised and researched in the Arts and Humanities, in the interest of cooperative and conscientious responsible knowledge generation and foundational conceptual and methodological research impacts. We serve the hopes and aspirations of the people of Africa.

AASBS is committed to the highest levels of inclusive, factually correct and critical, socially-responsive and socially-accountable evidence-based research analyses and outputs. Each chapter is reviewed by at least two independent peer reviewers. Through its editing and peer-review system, each volume also builds research leadership, research expertise, and interactive research acumen, capacity and capabilities.

A list of 2020 published titles follows overleaf

Alternation African Scholarship Book Series (AASBS)

Ramrathan, L., N. Ndimande-Hlongwa, N. Mkhize & J.A. Smit (eds.). Re-thinking the Humanities Curriculum in the Time of COVID-19. Volume #01.

Ndimande-Hlongwa, N., L. Ramrathan, N. Mkhize & J.A. Smit (eds.). Technology-based Teaching and Learning in Higher Education during the Time of COVID-19. Volume #02.

Mkhize, N., N. Ndimande-Hlongwa, L. Ramrathan & J.A. Smit (eds.). Teaching and Learning in Higher Education in the Time of COVID-19. Volume #03.

Smit, J.A., N. Mkhize, N. Ndimande-Hlongwa & L. Ramrathan (eds.). Learner and Subject at the Dawn of Digital Humanities Online Research-Led Teaching and Learning. Volume #04.

Manik, S. (ed.). From High-risk Sports to Sports as High Risk: Crisis, Capitulation and Creativity during COVID-19. Volume #05.

Singh, U.G., M.W. Phiri, P.S. Reddy & P. Appavoo (eds.). Global Trends in Management, IT and Governance in an E-World (E-MIG 2019 International). Volume # 06.

Amin, N. & R. Dhunpath (eds.). (Re)Learning to Teach in the Context of Crises. Volume #07.

Bob, U. (ed.). The COVID-19 Pandemic: Impacts of the Corona Virus on Sport and Society. Volume #08.

Learner and Subject at the Dawn of Digital Research-Led Teaching and Learning in the Time of COVID-19

Editors

Johannes A. Smit

Nobuhle Ndimande-Hlongwa

Nhlanhla Mkhize

Labby Ramrathan

2020

Humanities Institute & CSSALL Publishers
Durban & Pietermaritzburg

Published in 2020 in South Africa

Humanities Institute
Private Bag X10
Howard College Campus
University of KwaZulu-Natal
Durban, 4041 South Africa

CSSALL Publishers (Pty) Ltd
c/o POSTNET SUITE 158
Private Bag X9118
Pietermaritzburg
3200, South Africa

Editor-in-Chief: Prof J.A. Smit
University of KwaZulu-Natal
Email: smitj@ukzn.ac.za

Alternation African Scholarship Book Series Volume #04

© CSSALL Publishers (Pty) Ltd
Email: cssall123@gmail.com

Title: Learner and Subject at the Dawn of Digital Research-Led Teaching and Learning in the Time of COVID-19

Editors: Johannes A. Smit, Nobuhle Ndimande-Hlongwa, Nhlanhla Mkhize, and Labby Ramrathan

ISBN: 978-0-9869936-5-7

DOI Number: <https://doi.org/10.29086/978-0-9869936-5-7/2020/AASBS04>

Cover design by Abdulbaqi Badru
University of Kwazulu-Natal
Email: badrua@ukzn.ac.za

All rights reserved. No part of this publication may be reproduced, stored in a retrieval system, or transmitted in any form or by any means electronic, mechanical, photocopying, recording or otherwise, without the prior permission of the copyright holder and publisher.

CSSALL has no responsibility for the persistence or accuracy of URLs for external or third-party internet websites referred to in this volume, and does not guarantee that any content on such websites is, or will remain, accurate or appropriate.

Printed and bound by Print Connection, Tel (031) 202-7766; 202-7766

Preface

Emerging first in Wuhan, China, followed by its spread to other parts of the world, COVID-19 has had governments globally, systematically initiate a variety of forms of intervention, to curb its spread. These include lockdowns, the restriction of movement, forms of social distancing and sanitizing practices, as well as the requirement that citizens wear face-masks. Since the responses took place according to regional exigencies and directives, and were not uniform and equally comprehensive, internationally, they have also had diverse effects. Ranging from shortcomings in medical and health care provisioning, through economic downturns and fears of the increase in practices of governance surveillance, to the disrupting of schooling and tertiary education systems, sports, and cultural and religious events and practices, COVID-19 bodily, mentally, materially and socially, destructively affected the whole world as we know it. Apart from its continued deadly impacts, and barring the arrival of universally effective vaccines, the spectre of COVID-19's expected second surge with the arrival of winter in the northern hemisphere, also have populations across the world readying themselves to learn to live with the presence of infection on a continuous basis.

Given this very brief and though limited scenario, this Preface provides the context for the first four volumes of the Alternation African Scholarship Book Series (AASBS).

Focused on the impacts of COVID-19 on the Higher Education sector, especially from curriculum perspectives, at all levels and a sample of disciplines and subjects, the first four volumes were in principle conceptualised by the Humanities Institute (HI) and the Alternation Editorial Committee (AEC), on 31 March 2020.

This initial project problematisation has grown into twelve research groups with seven AASBS volumes, and five Alternation Journal issues in production. Indications are that even if the world is rid of COVID-19 through vaccination – which might not happen in the near future – its impacts will be lasting. In the short to medium term we may also have to learn to live with the reality of the presence of the pandemic, and possibilities of infection and potential resultant death. These dynamics are being traced in the research, in, as well as outside academe, as we learn to transform and adapt to new realities, possibilities, risks, and drawbacks, of digital education and media.

In many ways COVID-19 brought communities of teaching and learning closer together across the usual social and professional divides. The hope is to ensure the optimal wellbeing for the greatest possible number of our fellow human beings (Ubuntu), and for staff and students to benefit from available existing and (digitally-) constructed resources. This outcome motivates each moment of our collective research-led teaching and learning, even though distance and disease threaten all.

The research produced by the Alternation research groups constitute a small part of how academia attempts to both engage the conundrums and provide academic leadership amidst the effects and educational and learning opportunities of COVID-19. And for this we want to thank the lead-editors and their teams, as well as all the colleagues from across southern Africa who have responded positively, and affirmatively to our call.

And for their endeavor, and sleepless days and nights of rescuing our sick, and caring for those passing away, we want to dedicate these, the first number of volumes of our Alternation African Scholarship Book Series, to our courageous medical staff, those who provide comfort, relief and succor to our sick and those passing away, as well as the singular worker, mostly unrecognized, that kept the wheels of life and optimal wellbeing turning. Thank you, colleagues. And go well. Siyabonga, hamba kahle!

Prof. Johannes A. Smit
Editor-in-Chief: AASBS

Contents

Johannes A. Smit

Preface	v
Contents	vii
Contributors	ix

Johannes A. Smit, Nhlanhla Mkhize, Nobuhle Ndimande-Hlongwa, and Labby Ramrathan

Editorial: Learner and Subject at the Dawn of Digital Research-Led Teaching and Learning in the Time of COVID-19	1
--	---

Vanessa Noble and Kalpana Hiralal

The Black Death and COVID-19: The Value of Studying Pandemics in Historical Perspective	19
---	----

Anusharani Sewchurran and Franziska Pannach

Negotiating the Possibilities Digital Humanities Offers Media and Cultural Studies for Crisis Curriculum Adjustments in the Time of COVID-19	48
--	----

Yolandi Burger and Ria (H.M.) van Zyl

Resilient Transformation of Studio-based Teaching and Learning in Creative and Design Disciplines towards Cognitive Apprenticeship	76
--	----

Patricia Opondo, Eric Sunu Doe and José Alberto Daniel Chemane

Reframing Teaching African Music and Dance in the Tertiary Education Context: Alternatives and Pedagogical Solutions for Online and Other Forms of Non-contact Teaching in the Face of the COVID-19 Pandemic	100
--	-----

Suresh Babu Naidu, Krishna, Vasanthrie Naidoo, Shanaz Ghuman, Nellie Naranjee, Lavanya Madamshetty, Jamila Khatoon Adam, and Maureen Nokuthula Sibiya

Preparedness of Staff and Students in Utilising Learning Management Systems in Health Sciences as Crisis Intervention during Lockdown	127
---	-----

Orhe Arek-Bawa and Sarasvathie Reddy

Blending Digital and Technological Skills with Traditional Commerce Education Knowledge in Preparation for the 4IR Classroom: The COVID-19 Catalyst	144
---	-----

Phumlani Erasmus Myende and Nokukhanya Ndlovu
COVID-19 and Emergency Online Teaching and Learning:
A Challenge of Social Justice for Rural University Students 167

Samukelisiwe Khumalo, Asheena Singh Pillay and Roshanthni Subrayen
Reflections on Differently Abled Students’ Challenges with Online
Learning amidst the COVID-19 Pandemic and Lockdown 188

Thobeka S. Nkomo
Social Work Field Instruction Supervision and Resilience during COVID-19 Lockdown 209

Urmilla Bob, Suveshnee Munien, Amanda Gumede and Rivoni Gounden
Supporting Research at South African Universities during the COVID-19
Crisis: Key Areas for Consideration and Critical Reflections on Responses with a Focus on Postgraduate Education 226

Acknowledgment of Reviewers 247

Contributors

Professor Jamila Khatoon Adam is Chairperson, Institutional Research Ethics Committee, Durban University of Technology, KwaZulu-Natal, South Africa. Prof Adam has supervised over 340 BTech Projects in Clinical Technology, Biomedical Technology and Biotechnology, 30 Masters students in Clinical Technology, Biomedical Technology, Radiography, Dental Technology, Nursing, Emergency Medical Services, Management Sciences, 06 PhD students in Clinical Technology, Biomedical Technology and Health Sciences, and 02 Post-Doctoral students in Medical/ Clinical and Biotechnology. adamjk@dut.ac.za; <https://orcid.org/0000-0001-6266-699X>

Dr. Orhe Arek-Bawa is currently a contract staff member in Accounting Education within the Social Science Cluster of the School of Education in the University of KwaZulu-Natal (UKZN). Prior to joining academia in 2014, she spent over fifteen years in the corporate world in diverse fields of Accounting in both Nigeria and South Africa. After qualifying as a Chartered Accountant in 1991 in Nigeria, she has worked in various industries performing key accounting roles such as Financial Accounting, Management Accounting and Audit. She rose to the position of the divisional Finance Director in 2001 overseeing the finance arm of a Packaging business. She also experienced the South African business world while working with Sifax South Africa between 2007 and 2009. In quest of a career in education, she commenced a certificate course in teaching in 2013 after which she started lecturing in the UKZN School of Education in 2014. At the same time, she embarked on her doctoral journey in 2014 for the next five years ending September 2018. Her research pursuit which basically draws on her doctoral studies, focuses on the fields of assessment, cognitive demand and textbooks within the domain of Accounting education. More recently, her research focus has expanded, and now includes curriculum preparedness for the 4th industrial revolution classroom and virtual learning in the South African context. orheab@gmail.com; arekbawao@ukzn.ac.za; <https://orcid.org/0000-0002-1485-132X>

Prof. Urmilla Bob is a Full Professor of Geography in the School of Agriculture, Earth and Environmental Sciences and University Dean of Research at the University of KwaZulu-Natal, South Africa. She conducts research on a range of developmental and environmental issues, including socio-economic impact assessments of developmental projects in relation to conservation and tourism projects as well as sustainable livelihoods in both rural and urban contexts. She is also actively involved in postgraduate supervision, training and administration. bobu@ukzn.ac.za

<https://orcid.org/0000-0002-4256-2488>

Dr. Yolandi Burger was the programme manager of the Graphic Design programme at the Independent Institute of Education VEGA (IIEVEGA). She holds a PhD in Higher Education Studies from the University of the Free State. She has taught in art and design education for more than 10 years and was the honours research co-ordinator for the Design programmes at the Pretoria campus. She published several articles and a scholarly book chapter. Yolandi's professional interests include the ever-changing role of creatives in the world and the resulting impact this phenomenon has on the curriculum, research opportunities, educational technologies and the ecology. yburger@vegaschool.com; yolandibur@gmail.com;
<https://orcid.org/0000-0002-5121-9497>

José Alberto Daniel Chemane is an Applied Ethnomusicologist, drummer, percussionist and educator, originally from Mozambique. He holds a Master of Arts degree in Applied Ethnomusicology and is currently reading for his doctoral studies. He has performed and conducted workshops extensively in Mozambique and abroad. He worked with 'Danse en Lr', a Reunion Island-based Dance Company (2009-2012), leading to Saint-Leu and Kinani Festivals' performances. In 2011, Chemane performed at FESTIDANZA Festival in Arequipa, Peru, with the African Music and Dance (AMD) project at University of KwaZulu Natal ensemble Ikusasa Lethu, and has since been a part-time lecturer in the UKZN AMD program. His research interests include performance practices of African Music and Dance and curriculum development of the same. albertchemane@gmail.com;
<https://orcid.org/0000-0003-0986-5644>

Eric Sunu Doe is a PhD candidate in Applied Ethnomusicology and a part-time lecturer in the African Music and Dance (AMD) Program at the University of KwaZulu Natal, tutoring Ghanaian palmwine guitar and its repertoire. He holds a Master of Philosophy (MPhil) in Music from the University of Ghana where he also served in the Faculty of Music until his enrollment for doctoral studies. Sunu directed the Legon Highlife Ensemble and currently leads the Legon Palmwine Band. He is the curator of Nsawase Nkomo performance circle and the Nsawase Music Festival in Ghana, all projects arising from his doctoral research work on revitalising the Ghanaian Palmwine music tradition. A recipient of the 2017 Ivan Karp Doctoral Research Award, his research interests include Ghanaian indigenous and African popular music traditions, Applied Ethnomusicology, Performance Studies, Area Studies and Organology. sunudoe@gmail.com; sunudoe@ukzn.ac.za <https://orcid.org/0000-0002-4552-8437>

Professor Shanaz Ghuman has 30 years of experience in Higher Education, Durban University of Technology, KwaZulu-Natal in academia and as a researcher in Health Sciences. She obtained Master's degree in Public Health from the Nelson Mandela Medical School (UKZN); and completed a PhD in Indigenous Plant Medicinal Health (UKZN). Her passion for Education and Public Health issues includes epidemiology, adolescent risk behaviours, reproductive health, community development, health science education and indigenous/ traditional plant medicines resulted in several DHET accredited publications and conference presentations in National and International journals. Dr Ghuman also peer reviews for various journals and the Ethics and Faculty research committee at the university. She supervises Master's in environmental health, Health Sciences and Somatology students as well as PhD Health Sciences and Environmental Health students. She has been an examiner for various Master's dissertations across a range of Health Sciences qualifications over the years. Her commitment to community engagement involves research projects and service as a Board/ Committee Member of three local CBO's/ NGO's for over 25 years. She believes that a wise teacher leads others into the threshold of their own minds, and I hope to empower many others into this journey. shanazg@dut.ac.za; <https://orcid.org/0000-0002-6707-9871>;

Rivoni Gounden is a Masters graduate in the Geography and Environmental Science discipline (College of Agriculture, Engineering and Science, University of KwaZulu-Natal). She undertakes research on sustainable natural resource management practices. Additionally, she has been involved in postgraduate capacity development programmes. goundenr@ukzn.ac.za <https://orcid.org/0000-0001-5414-223X>

Amanda Gumede is a Masters graduate in the Geography and Environmental Science discipline (College of Agriculture, Engineering and Science, University of KwaZulu-Natal). She undertakes research on sustainable waste management and renewable energy. Additionally, she has been involved in postgraduate capacity development programmes. gumede1@ukzn.ac.za <https://orcid.org/0000-0002-3909-3852>

Professor Kalpana Hiralal is a professor of History in the School of Social Sciences at Howard College at the University of KwaZulu-Natal, South Africa. A South African NRF rated researcher, her two key areas of interest are Gender and the South Asian Diaspora and Women in the Anti-apartheid Struggle. She is the co-editor of Satyagraha, Passive Resistance and its Legacy (Manohar 2015); the editor of Global Hindu Diaspora Historical and Contemporary Perspectives (Routledge 2017); co-author of Pioneers of Satyagraha Indian South African Defy Racist Laws 1907-1914 (Navajivan 2017); and co-author of Gender and Mobility: Borders, Bodies and Boundaries (Palgrave 2018). hiralalk@ukzn.ac.za; <https://orcid.org/0000-0002-1733-4643>

Dr. Samukelisiwe Khumalo, Ph.D., is a senior lecturer in Curriculum Studies Discipline at the University of KwaZulu-Natal and Academic Leader for Teaching and Learning in the School of Education. Her research interests are in rurality, and success, throughput, and academic support in higher education, along with multigrade teaching. She coordinates different undergraduate and postgraduate programs and teaches and supervises postgraduate research in Curriculum Studies. She has published in local, national, and international journals. She is leading potential cum laude and academically “at-risk” student projects. KhumaloS13@ukzn.ac.za <https://orcid.org/0000-0002-1568-2652>

Mrs. Lavanya Madamshetty is registered member of the Institute of Information Technology Professionals of South Africa (IITPSA) and presently works as a Lecturer in Information System at Durban University of Technology, KwaZulu-Natal. The focused area of research includes Big Data, Business Information systems, Manual Testing, Strategic Management and Acquisition, the 4th Industrial Revolution, as well as Artificial Intelligence and their role in Higher education. lavanyam@dut.ac.za; <https://orcid.org/0000-0002-7033-364X>

Prof. Nhlanhla Mkhize is the Deputy Vice-Chancellor and Head of the College of Humanities at the University of KwaZulu-Natal, South Africa. He is the former Dean of the Faculty of Humanities, and former Dean and Head of the School of Psychology at the University of KwaZulu-Natal. He co-led the roll-out of the Certificate Course in Community Based Work with Children and youth, a joint initiative of REPSSI and the University of KwaZulu-Natal, which was implemented in 10 countries in the SADEC region. He is currently leading an integrated psychosocial intervention project to assist vulnerable communities to respond to the mental health and social implications of the COVID-19 pandemic in the KwaZulu-Natal province, South Africa. He holds a PhD in Psychology and has published articles and book chapters on various aspects of Afrikan Psychology, Afrikan Ethics, and the use of Afrikan Languages as a vehicle to transform higher education in South Africa. He is one of the founding members of the Forum of Afrikan Psychology, former President of the South African Humanities Deans' Association (SAHUDA), and co-founder of the Alternation African Scholarship Book Series. Mkhize@ukzn.ac.za; <https://orcid.org/0000-0002-0088-5780>

Dr. Suveshnee Munien is a lecturer in the Geography and Environmental Science discipline (College of Agriculture, Engineering and Science, University of KwaZulu-Natal). She holds a PhD in environmental science. Her research focuses on mixed methodological approaches to examining aspects relating to human-environmental systems and vulnerabilities, and renewable energy technologies and society. munien@ukzn.ac.za
<https://orcid.org/0000-0003-1976-234X>

Professor Phumlani Myende is an associate professor in Educational Leadership, Management and Policy in the School of Education at the University of KwaZulu-Natal. He is also Secretary of Education Management Association of South Africa (EMASA). His broad research interest is educational leadership in the context of rurality with a direct focus on school - community partnership, school financial management and school leadership and deprivation. MyendeP@ukzn.ac.za;
<http://orcid.org/0000-0002-4592-0228>

Ms. Nokukhanya Ndlovu is a lecturer in the Educational Leadership, Management and Policy discipline at the University of KwaZulu-Natal, School of Education. She researches on educational leadership, management and policy. Her research interest includes leadership and identity, focusing on early career principals and self-reflexive methodologies. She is currently reading for her doctoral studies focusing on early career principals in the context of multiple deprivations. In 2020 she was a visiting scholar at Teachers College, Columbia University in New York City.

SatimburwaN@ukzn.ac.za; <https://orcid.org/0000-0002-4280-2998>

Dr. Suresh Babu Naidu, Krishna Suresh Babu Naidu, Krishna is presently a Research Fellow in Department of Biomedical and Clinical Technology (Research & Post Graduate support) at Durban University of Technology, South Africa. He is currently a registered member of the South African Council for Natural Scientific Professions (SACNASP) as Natural Scientist; a Member of Royal Society of South Africa (MRSSAf); South African Society for Microbiology (SASM); and the South African Society for Biochemistry and Molecular Biology (SASBMB).

He has made 11 conference presentations, published 30+ research articles in ISI-rated journals, and is appointment to various strategic national and international committees within the higher education sector. Dr. Naidu is presently also actively involved in research projects involving Nanoscience, Plant biotechnology, Plant Renewable Energy and Probiotics, and co-supervise postgraduate students. sureshk@dut.ac.za; <https://orcid.org/0000-0003-3155-8878>

Dr. Nellie Naranjee is an Occupational Health Nursing lecturer at the Department of Nursing, Faculty of Health Sciences – Durban University of Technology, KwaZulu-Natal. Her research interests include Management Sciences, Public Health, Health Services Management and Education. NellieN1@dut.ac.za; <https://orcid.org/0000-0002-4678-3114>

Prof. Nobuhle Ndimande-Hlongwa is Dean and Head of School of the School of Arts, and former Dean of Teaching and Learning and an Associate Professor in the College of Humanities at the University of KwaZulu-Natal. She is an author of the scholarly book titled Ukuhllelwa Kolimi, (Shooter & Shuter, 2009) translated as Language Planning. She co-guest edited a special issue of Alternation Journal 17,1 (2010) with the theme, Multilingualism for Access, Language Development and Language Intellectualisation. She is also the Editorial Secretary of Nomina Africana Journal. She was a member of the Ministerial Advisory Panel on the development of African Languages in Higher Education. She is a Commissioner for the Linguistic Human Rights Tribunal within the Pan South African Languages Board (PanSALB), and also co-founder of the Alternation African Scholarship Book Series.

hlongwan1@ukzn.ac.za; <https://orcid.org/0000-0001-9597-8690>

Dr. Thobeka Nkomo (Ph.D. in Social Work) is an esteemed researcher, published author and academic at the University of the Witwatersrand (Wits). Her research interests include spirituality and health concerns, forgiveness, gender issues, ethics, and values specifically related to cultural sensitivity, young women leadership, HIV/AIDS and sexual reproductive health and concerns; and all matters related to social work. She teaches classes on ‘Ethics and Values’, ‘Contextual issues in Occupational Social Work’, and is actively involved in collaborative research projects with peers from all over Africa. For example, on menstrual hygiene in partnership with AIDS FOUNDATION SOUTH AFRICA (AFSA), and Women Intellectuals Transforming Scholarship in Education. As an academic at Wits, she supervises many undergraduate and postgraduate students to promote, nurture and advance education in our South African context. Before her appointment at Wits, she worked and practiced as a social worker both in the public and private sectors. She is registered as a member of the South African Council for Social Service Professions (SACSSP).

Thobeka.nkomo@wits.ac.za; <https://orcid.org/0000-0002-0495-9521>

Dr. Vasanthrie Naidoo is a Registered Critical Care nurse and Senior lecturer at the Department of Nursing – Durban University of Technology, KwaZulu-Natal. Her research interests include Critical Care Nursing Education, Health Sciences Education, Health Services Management, and Cross-border Education and Research. vasanthrien@dut.ac.za; <https://orcid.org/0000-0003-2740-5983>

Dr. Vanessa Noble is a Senior Lecturer in the Historical Studies programme at the University of KwaZulu-Natal in South Africa. Her research focuses on the social history of health and healing in Southern Africa, with a particular interest in South Africa. She has published several articles on themes related to medical education and professionalisation, politicisation and medicine, missionary medicine, district and community health care and health intermediaries. She is also the author of A School of Struggle: Durban's Medical School and the Education of Black Doctors in South Africa (University of KwaZulu-Natal Press, 2013); and co-author of The People Hospital: A History of McCords, Durban, 1890s-1970s (Natal Society Foundation, 2017). noble1@ukzn.ac.za; <https://orcid.org/0000-0001-5112-0705>

Dr. Patricia Opondo is an Applied Ethnomusicologist and Senior Lecturer in African Music and Dance (AMD) at the University of KwaZulu-Natal. She established the undergraduate program in AMD and serves as curator of the annual African Cultural Calabash Festival, now in its 16th edition. Serves as Artistic Director of Ikusasa Lethu, a professional AMD touring ensemble she founded in 2000. Opondo has directed several community-based initiatives including teacher in-service training programmes and produced an edited 7-part DVD educational series on various indigenous Zulu music and dance forms. She established a research and documentation unit and AMD Archive under the African Music Project's umbrella. She teaches postgraduate courses in applied ethnomusicology, digital ethnography and arts entrepreneurship. She has graduated applied ethnomusicologists and ethnographic documentary filmmakers. Her research interests include applied ethnomusicology, African area studies, music education, dance ethnography, and she publishes in the following areas: African epistemologies, cultural policy, gendered performance, music and identity, African pedagogies. opondop@ukzn.ac.za; <https://orcid.org/0000-0003-4023-8833>

Ms. Franziska Pannach is a Computer Scientist at the Goettingen Centre for Digital Humanities, Germany. She has a background in Computational Linguistics, has worked in the field of Library and Information Sciences, and Academic Publishing. Currently, she is pursuing her PhD with a specialisation in Computational Linguistics at the University of Goettingen. Her research interests include natural language processing for under-resourced languages, narrative pattern detection, and computational folkloristics. She has a special passion for the folktales of the Zulu people. franziska.pannach@uni-goettingen.de; <https://orcid.org/0000-0003-4216-8410>

Professor Sarasvathie Reddy is an Associate Professor in the discipline of Higher Education Studies, School of Education, College of Humanities, UKZN. She is the Academic Leader for the Cluster of Education and Development Studies and joined the university in 1999. She spent the first decade of her academic life at the Nelson R. Mandela School of Medicine as the Head of the Skills Laboratory where she was involved in designing and teaching the clinical aspects of the medical curriculum. On completion of her PhD in Higher Education she moved to the discipline of Higher Education Studies in 2014. Her research interests in higher education include a focus on gender and diversity, curriculum development and design, doctoral education, academic staff and student development and assessing learning in the higher education context. Prof. Saras has graduated 10 Masters and 4 PhDs to date and has more than 20 peer-reviewed publications. She is currently supervising 16 postgraduate students. Besides being an academic she is also an ultra-distance athlete who has successfully completed 11 Comrades Marathons and 14 Two Oceans Marathons among many others to date. In 2016 she summited the peak of Mount Kilimanjaro and in 2018 she summited the Base Camp of Mount Everest. [reddys15@ukzn.ac.za](mailto:red dys15@ukzn.ac.za)

<https://orcid.org/0000-0001-9344-7431>

Prof. Labby Ramrathan is a Professor at the School of Education at the University of KwaZulu-Natal and a NRF rated researcher. He simultaneously serves as President of the South African Education Research Association (SAERA). He has been involved in several institutional, national and international project works and has published widely in these areas of scholarship. Currently he is leading the College of Humanities, UKZN, curriculum transformation process within the context of decolonization. He is also a co-founder of the Alternation African Scholarship Book Series. ramrathanp@ukzn.ac.za; <https://orcid.org/0000-0001-9963-0675>

Dr. Anusharani Sewchurran is an emerging scholar in the Centre for General Education, Midlands Campuses, Durban University of Technology. Her research interests include political economy of media, digital humanities, and Afrofuturism. She is a member of the Digital Humanities Association of Southern Africa (DHASA) and serves on the awards committee. She is also a member of Isigqi Sobuntu Organization (ISO), a community development organisation based at the Ezakhaleni Informal Settlement, where she tries to theorise and practise community engagement. Apart from teaching and research, her other passion is cooking, specialising in vegan food from root to plate. Anusharanis@dut.ac.za
<https://orcid.org/0000-0001-8560-2921>

Professor Maureen Nokuthula Sibiya is the Deputy Vice-Chancellor: Teaching and Learning at the Durban University of Technology, KwaZulu-Natal. She is NRF-C3 rated and her research focus areas include Primary Health Care, Nursing Education and Health Systems Research. nokuthulas@dut.ac.za;
<https://orcid.org/0000-0003-1220-1478>

Dr. Asheena Singh Pillay is a senior lecturer within the school of Education, Science and Technology cluster. She is also the academic leader of the Bachelor of Education programme. Her pedagogy is informed by a quest for education that is socially just and more relevant. She advocates that education be viewed as a human activity which is embedded in socio-cultural and political issues. Her post graduate supervision and research is transdisciplinary and focuses on engineering graphics design, design process, education for sustainable development, gender, science process skills, indigenous knowledge and technologies as well as the use of technology-based pedagogic tools for teaching. pillaya5@ukzn.ac.za; <https://orcid.org/0000000315408992>

Prof. Johannes A. Smit, is Professor of Religion and Social Transformation, Chair: Humanities Institute, and former Dean and Head of School of the School of Religion, Philosophy and Classics, and the School of Arts (Acting), UKZN. He is the founding editor of the Alternation Journal, ([1994] 1996), as well as of the Alternation African Scholarship Book Series (2020), and served as research chair of the former Faculty of Arts/Humanities. He has a lifelong commitment to interdisciplinary learning and critical research capacity development in the Arts and Humanities. He was also President of the Association for the study of Religion in Southern Africa (ASRSA), editor-in-chief of the Journal for the Study of Religion (in Southern Africa), teaches Comparative Religion (main focus Christianity), and is the founder of the postgraduate Programme in Religion and Social Transformation in 2000, that has graduated in excess of 300 postgraduate students, between 2000 and 2011 when he stepped down as programme director. smitj@ukzn.ac.za; <http://orcid.org/0000-0003-1792-5256>

Roshanthni Subrayen Disability Support Unit Coordinator, Edgewood Campus, School of Education, University of KwaZulu-Natal.
Subrayen@ukzn.ac.za

Dr. Ria (H.M.) van Zyl started her career in 1985 as a communication designer, product developer and owner of a communication design consultancy. Ria joined the University of Pretoria in 1999 as senior design lecturer and researcher. She completed her master's degree at the University of Pretoria with a dissertation on the development of a service quality framework for the communication design industry. She published several articles and conference papers and wrote a book on brand identity in 2007 aimed at entrepreneurs. In 2014, she joined the Independent Institute of Education VEGA (IIEVEGA) where she is now academic programme manager in the design section and national post-graduate research co-ordinator (honours). In 2018 she completed her PhD at the Da Vinci Institute and served on the Design Educators Forum of Southern Africa (DEFSA) committee (2018 – 2019). rvzyl@vegaschool.com;

<http://orcid.org/0000-0002-7159-2766>

