

Contributors

Lesiba Baloyi is Chief Clinical Psychologist and Head of the Department of Clinical Psychology, Dr George Mukhari Academic Hospital & Sefako Makagatho Health Services, South Africa. He is one of the founding members and current President of the Forum of African Psychology (FAP). Contact details: lesibab@tivumbeni.com

Anele Bomoyi graduated with a Master of Social Science in Counselling Psychology from the University of KwaZulu-Natal. She is an independent psychological practitioner. Bomoyi is currently pursuing her doctoral studies at the University of KwaZulu-Natal. Contact details: zabomoyi@gmail.com

Ethel Chitindingu holds a Master of Social Science in Research Psychology. She is a co-author of an article on the role of African languages in promoting access and success in higher education. Contact details: echitindingu@gmail.com

Tony Jackson is a clinical psychologist and co-director of PranaMind, Brain Wellness. He earned his Ph.D. in Clinical Psychology with an emphasis in Health and Multicultural Psychology from the California School of Professional Psychology, Berkeley-Alameda campus. He is a tenured professor of psychology at Skyline College in San Bruno, CA and a lecturer at San Francisco State University. He is co-author of Psychology: Connections in Theory and Practice (4th ed), and author of Black Male Violence in Perspective-Towards an Afrocentric Approach. Contact details: tjackson@pranamind.com

James January is a senior lecturer in the Department of Community Medicine at the University of Zimbabwe and has published several articles. He is a clinical psychologist in Harare and is registered with the Allied Health Professions Council of Zimbabwe. Contact details: jamesj@medsch. uz.ac.zw

Contributors

Danson (Dan) Kahyana teaches in the Department of Literature at Makerere University, Uganda. He holds a PhD in Literature from the University of Stellenbosch, South Africa. He is pursuing research on how Ugandan literary texts portray constructions and negotiations of national identities in different epochs (early colonial, late colonial, independence and post-independence). Contact details: dkdan76@yahoo.co.uk

Sandra Matore graduated with an Honours degree in Psychology at Midlands State University, Zimbabwe, in 2012. She is currently working for an NGO in Zimbabwe. Contact details:

Nhlanhla Mkhize is the Dean & Head of School of the School of Applied Human Sciences at the University of KwaZulu-Natal. He holds a PhD in Psychology and has published articles and book chapters on various aspects of African Psychology and the use of African languages in higher education. He is one of the founding members of the Forum of African Psychology (FAP) in South Africa and former President of the South African Humanities Deans' Association (SAHUDA). Contact details: Mkhize@ukzn.ac.za

Innocentia Mhlambi teaches African-language literature, Black film studies, popular culture, visual culture and studies in oral literature. Her current research interests are on Black film in South Africa, cultural connections between the people of African descent in Africa and in the Diaspora and developing African-language literary theory. She is based at the University of Witwatersrand, South Africa. Contact details: Innocentia.Mhlambi@wits.ac.za

Luxolo Vincent Mtyende is a Lecturer in English Studies at the University of KwaZulu-Natal, South Africa. He holds an MA in African Literature and Culture Studies. His current research interests are in the area of African literature especially the treatment of war, translocation, identity issues, migrancy and geopolitics. He also has a keen interest in young adult literature as well as the teaching and curriculum development of English literature in Higher Education Institutions in South Africa. He is currently pursuing his doctoral studies at the University of KwaZulu-Natal. Contact details: Mtyende@ukzn.ac.za

Julia Mutambara is a registered Clinical Psychologists and a Lecturer in the Department of Psychology at Midlands State University, Zimbabwe. Her research interests are in the following areas: positive psychology, trauma and trauma healing, vulnerable groups, women's health and health psychology in general. Contact details: juliamutambara@gmail.com

Nobuhle Ndimande-Hlongwa is a Dean of Teaching and Learning and an Associate Professor in the College of Humanities at the University of KwaZulu-Natal. She is an author of a scholarly book entitled "Ukuhlelwa Kolimi" translated as Language Planning. She co-guest edited a special issue of Alternation Journal Vol.17,1 2010 with the theme: Multilingualism for access, language development and language intellectualisation. She is the new editorial Secretary of Nomina Africana Journal. She monitors student enrolments and academic performance of undergraduate students and the implementation of the University language policy in the College of Humanities. She was a member of the Ministerial Advisory Panel on the development of African Languages in Higher Education. She is a Commissioner for Linguistic Human Rights Tribunal within the Pan South African Languages Board: Contact details: hlongwan1@ukzn.ac.za

Wade Nobles is Professor Emeritus, Africana Studies and Black Psychology, San Francisco State University, San Francisco, California; Founding Member and Past President, the Association of Black Psychologists (ABPsi), Washington, DC; Founding Executive Director (Retired), the Institute for the Advanced Study of Black Family Life and Culture, Inc., Oakland, California. Contact details: drnobles@gmail.com

Mogobe B. Ramose is an extraordinary Professor of Philosophy. He is attached to the Department of Clinical Psychology at Dr. Goerge Mukhari Academic Hospital. The focus of his work is Ubuntu, the Nguni concept in which philosophy, ontology and ethics are thought together in a holistic approach to human-ness. He has held many institutional affiliations in the course of his career. He has taught at the Katholieke Universiteit Leuven, the University of Zimbabwe, the Katholieke Universiteit Brabant, the University of Venda, and the University of South Africa, where he was instrumental in introducing African Philosophy. Contact details: tanella@mweb.co.za

Contributors

Mathias Sithole is a Physics Lecturer in the Department of Science and Mathematics at Marymount Teachers College, Zimbabwe. He has published articles and book chapters on the teaching of Mathematics and indigenous Physics education. Contact details: mathias_sithole@yahoo.com

Tholene Sodi is Professor and Head of the Department of Psychology, University of Limpopo, Sovenga, South Africa. He is currently pursuing research on mourning rituals amongst the indigenous peoples in South Africa. He is a co-founding member of the Forum of African Psychology (FAP) and the President Elect of the Psychological Society of South Africa (PSYSSA). Contact details: Sodit@ul.ac.za

M. Vambe teaches African Literature in the Department of English Studies at the University of South Africa. He is the author of African Oral Story Tradition and the Zimbabwean Novel in English (2004) and co-edited Charles Mungoshi: A Critical Reader (2006) with Memory Chirere. He has also published numerous articles on Zimbabwean and African literature in English and in African languages. Contact details: Vambemt@unisa.ac.za

Boni Zungu holds a PhD in isiZulu Studies. She is the Head of the Department of African Languages at the University of Witwatersrand. Among her research interests are: language development, multilingualism, naming in African societies, and gender studies. Contact details: Boni.zungu @wits.ac.za